Hae Been Received by the Wheeling Management, and It Contains the Signature of Jack Donavin-A Fairy Tale From Springfield.

The management of the Wheeling base ball club last night received; the first contract of the season, and it contains the signature of popular Jack Donavin, the clever outfielder, who, so many local fans believe, is destined to make his mark in fast company. played with the Wheeling team of 1895, but at that time lacked experience, and vas let go before the season ended. was let go before the season ended. He is one of the fastest of outfielders, and his batting optics have vastly Improved since '25. He will be given a thorough trial, but will have to put up a great game, for Lytle, Dobbs and Farrel are a great trio of onifielders, and bonavin will secure a job only by showing greater speed than Farrel or Dobbs, Lytle's position, of course, being assured.

A fairy tale comes from Springfield the effect that the stockholders of club there will make an effort to ure another franchise in the Inter-ite. The plan is to nave the league's secure another franchise in the Interstate. The plan is to nave the league's circult enlarged to ten clubs, and admit Springfied and Columbus. This doesn't look good, even on paper, and wouldn't go through in a thousand years. The league has just unloaded its Springfield burden, and none of the clubs are desirous of another experience with the gubernatorial village, columbus may come in, if Fort Wayne or Mansfield drops out, as exclusively tipped in yesterday's Intelligencer, but Springfield never. There is some talk of admitting Columbus and Saginaw, thus Increasing the circuit to ten clubs. Saginaw is favored for the reason that two Michigan clubs would break the jump from Grand Rapids. Nothing definite will be determined until it is known whether or not Columbus is to be in the Western league this year.

The Wheeling management intends The wheeling management intended to put out a limited edition of seasor books. Not over 100 will be issued for the management realizes that the season book revenue will be a good thing at the start but a big handlear later in the season. The books will have seventy coupons, and will be transferable.

Leslie Pearce is putting himself in shape for his coming contest with Stanouth Chapline street, assisted by "Jim" Fogarty and "Buzz" Auber. Pearce is a great stickler for good condition and as usual in good form on the 75th. The preliminaries for this event will interest local sports, as the crack amateur middle weight of the Eighth ward, George Carle, will make his professional debut against Kid Wanko in n six-round bout at 159 pounds. Stanton Abbott is keeping in trim at his e in Providence, R. I., and will arrive in Wheeling this evening. Mrs. Rogers, Daughter of the Poisoned Woman, Testifies-Nothing of a Startling Nature Brought Out. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.-The Adams inquest which is supposed to be slowly fastening upon some yet unknown person the guilt of the murder of Mrs. Kate J. Adams and Henry Barnet, was continued to-day. David Murdock, the stationer and private letter box keeper, was called to the stand to-day, and verified his evidence of yesterday, in which he stated that Cornish and Mrs. Rogers had dealings with him in 1897. Then Mrs. Rogers resumed her testimony. She answered questions in a self-possessed She said she had lived in Hartford, Conn., all her life, until four years Cornish's uncle had married her father's sister, and Cornish was her cousin by marriage.

"How long did Cornish live in your house?" asked Mr. Osborne. "Since March last," replied Mrs.

"Not in a year and a half."
She had a letter box as Miss Addeson at Murdock's place. She never had any other letter box. She was living with her husband at the time, and having trouble with him. Her mother was always friendly, with her husband. Asked if he was not in Buffalo, Mrs. Rogers said:

very friendly?"
"Yes, friendly," said the woman, emphatically. She added that her mother phatically. She added that her mother was much grieved over the quarrel with her husband. The line of questioning was evidently intended to bring out whether or not Rogers could have had any possible motive for an attempt upon the life of his mother-in-law. There never was any trouble between herself and her mother, Mrs. Rogers said.

"Why did you have that letter box?"

was asked.
"Because," replied Mrs. Rogers, loudly, "I have business of a confidential nature with a man who is making investigations for me. The communications were of such a nature that I did not wish a member of my family to know about them."

Mrs. Rogers said she was legally separated from her husband.
Coroner Hart asked her if the letters she received at the private box were written by a member of the New York Athletic Club. Mrs. Rogers declared that she never met any member of that club. Neither had she received any letters from the Knickerbocker Athletic Club.

Her mother never had any trouble with Cornish.

Mr. Osborne there end any trouble with Cornish.

Mr. Osborne then endeavored to show that her mother and the agents objected to the way in which life was led at the Adams apartments, but Mrs. Rogers absolutely denied this.

"Do you know any reason why anybody should want to kill Cornish?"

"I certainly do not," replied Mrs. Rogers.

Mrs. Rogers said she had known Cornish since she was a girl. She had never seen Mrs. Cornish.

A new point was brought out when Mr. Osborne asked:
"Did you ever hear of any enemy that Cornish had?"

"I know of one man Cornish spoke of as being intensely hostile to him," said Mrs. Rogers.
"What was his name?"
"Bartow S. Weeks."
About a year and a half before her mother's death she had heard Cornish say that Weeks had threatened to run him out of town within a year.
"Have you learned of any other
